

COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT between
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
and YUROK TRIBE
for the
COOPERATIVE MANAGEMENT OF TRIBAL AND FEDERAL LANDS AND RESOURCES IN THE KLAMATH RIVER BASIN OF CALIFORNIA

I. STATEMENT OF JOINT OBJECTIVES:

A. Purpose. This Cooperative Agreement (Agreement) is made and entered into between the United States Department of the Interior (DOI) and the Yurok Tribe (Tribe) to coordinate and cooperatively manage Federal and Tribal lands and resources within the Klamath Basin in California, both within the Yurok Reservation as well as the related basin, upstream river, and Pacific Ocean resources subject to the jurisdiction or authorities of various DOI agencies and bureaus. This Agreement will provide more consistent, economical, effective, and collaborative management of Federal and Tribal lands and natural resources while furthering the Trust relationship that exists between DOI and the Tribe. This Agreement will also greatly expand the resources available to address the shared goals of DOI and the Tribe to improve our collective understanding of the river system and its dynamics, improve the health and vitality of the fishery, and identify and develop programs for natural resource management and service delivery in order to provide long-term benefits to the Tribe, local communities, and the general public and to improve the condition of the basin's natural resources. DOI and the Tribe anticipate that this Agreement will be the foundation for subsequent, continuing, and specific collaborative programs in natural resource management, including but not limited to land and water management, fisheries management, water quality monitoring, land use planning, data gap analysis, interpretation and outreach, and Tribal-interagency management initiatives which will enhance the opportunity to identify and resolve issues critical to the success and survival of a healthy river-based ecosystem in the lower Klamath Basin.

B. Objective. DOI and the Tribe intend to establish an ongoing collaborative government-to-government relationship for management of land, water and other natural resources which will inure to the benefit of DOI, the Tribe, and the communities, as well as the ecosystem and economy of the Klamath River Basin. This Agreement provides a mechanism to coordinate natural resource management programs, develop joint planning and management initiatives, and coordinate program and budget priorities through the cooperative allocation of resources and the development of long-term resource management and programmatic goals between the signatories. The Agreement will improve DOI and Tribal services to the Tribal and local communities and the general public by improving Klamath River resources management, addressing the health of the fishery, and establishing related programs for restoration and management of natural resources. The Agreement will provide an opportunity for the Tribe to bring to bear its acknowledged scientific expertise, its knowledge of the basin, and the wealth of its culture and traditions to its collaborative relationship with DOI. The Agreement will provide a mechanism by which the Tribe and DOI may further the protection and preservation of Tribal cultural values and practices while collaborating on management of basin natural resources. The Agreement will accomplish these objectives by developing mechanisms for increasing the potential contribution and participation in federal programs by the Tribe while also realizing broader benefits to Klamath Basin communities, the general public, federal agencies and the scientific community.

C. Authority. The Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, 43 U.S.C. § 1737(b); Endangered Species Act, 16 U.S.C. § 1531 et seq.; Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act, 16 U.S.C. § 661 et seq.; National Park Service Organic Act, 16 U.S.C. 1 et seq.; and Klamath River Basin Fisheries Resource Restoration Act, 16 U.S.C. § 460ss et seq., among others, provide that the Secretary of the Interior may undertake programs of resource management through Cooperative Agreements.

D. Benefits. Cooperative undertakings within the scope of this agreement will result in increased public management effectiveness, enhancement of natural resource program coordination, opportunity for joint public outreach, and a greater level of consistency and effectiveness in public and Tribal land use planning. This cooperative relationship provides DOI with access to resources and services not otherwise available, as well as the benefit of continued contributions by and involvement of Tribal officials, planners, resource specialists and the general Tribal membership in public land management. This broader partnership to further the federal-Tribal relationship is critical to providing a higher level of public service and to involving the Tribal government and the public in the development and coordination of resource management programs and cooperative land-use planning and management opportunities.
